Seven Old Ladies.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.]

The village and the country about the old Lester homestead were one day surprised by the announcement that Miss Priscilla Lester had decided to open an old woman's home in the big manor house. She had been a motherless girl for years, and her father had now been dead for twelve months. To open and conduct such a home had been her dream for years, and she was to have the enthusiastic support of her church pastor.

It wasn't to be called an old woman's home, as such a term would hurt old women's feelings, but was to be known as the old ladies' rest. While masons and carpenters were making changes, circulars were sent out and answered by thousands of old ladies throughout the United States. More than 500 of them called in person at once, though told not to, and when the rest was finally ready to receive guests over 5,000 applications were on file. Miss Priscilla and the minister were amazed. They had figured on only about forty old ladies and not taking them all at once either. After a long confab, in which various things came up that had not hitherto been discussed or provided for, it was decided to start off with only seven guests.

The seven old ladies walked or were carried or hoisted into the rest, and then the institution was considered opened. Each had a room, and the attendants had been instructed to treat them as they would their own mothers. Some of them did not obey instructions. They would have wrung their own mothers' necks before bedtime. As soon as they found themselves "solid" the old ladies broke out. They had game legs; they had stomach troubles; they had lumbago and swarming of the head; they wanted this and that, and they wanted it quick.

Next morning, after a night of groans and sighs, the seven got together in the dining room. The doctor, who had known as many as five old ladies in his life, had made out the bill of fare and looked upon it as a generous one. That was one of his mistakes. The seven agreed that it was the worst meal ever set before a poor old lady. It was already plain that they had been induced to enter the rest under false pretenses, and each and every one mumbled dark hints about lawsuits to get even. One of the seven had as many as three teeth left in her mouth, the others a tooth or two less, and yet the seven were a unit in wanting to know why beefsteak had not been provided.

After the dining room had been cleared the old ladies began to draw the lines of caste. When they got through each had her own status and was ready to pitch into that of all others. The doctor recommended that the whole caboodle of them be pitched outdoors, the minister looked thoughtful, and Miss Priscilla hovered over all like the angel of peace that she was. She held it to that as soon as the old ladies had got settled down everything would go smoothly.

The rooms were fine, but they were found fault with. The beds were good, but there were complaints. The food could scarcely have been bettered, but the seven cried out in chorus that they were being deliberately starved to death. Miss Priscilla listened to all these complaints and soothed the complainers, and sometimes she would bring a price about the best of all half an hour. Then Mrs. Hennessey would suddenly say to Mrs. Smith:

"Think of the likes of you to be complaining, an old cat that hasn't had a decent meal in your stomach for years!"

"And you—and you!" shouted Mrs. Smith in reply. "Don't we all know that you were glad to get potato peelings before you came here?"

It would always require Miss Priscilla's presence and sometimes that of the minister and two or three of the attendants to smooth the troubled waters, and after the waves had subsided the good man would be asked:

"These little things shouldn't discourage us, should they?"

"No-o, not exactly discourage."

"It's a noble charity, isn't it?"

"Yes, very noble."

"And the old ladies will come to love one another in time?"

"We must hope that they will."

"Oh, but, bless their dear old hearts, they surely will! I must hurry up and get the place ready for seven more."

The minister turned pale at the idea, but never more came. The rest had been running for a month, and the old ladies already had bickered at every meal and quarreled three times a day, when there arose a dispute one day as to whether lumbago or consumption entitled the victim to the most respect and consideration. It was not settled on the spot. It has never been settled since. There were angry words, and there was hair pulling over it, and then the seven old ladies left the institution by seven different ways, each one deciding she would never return. By the time Priscilla and the doctor and the minister had rounded them up and brought them back the minister was ready to say:

"Dear girl, you see how it has been for the last month. It is a noble charity. It is a beautiful thing. It presses a thousand tender sentiments, but were you to get married and let your husband run an old gentlemen's home instead I think your duty toward yourself and humanity at large would be as fully considered."

"Take Notice.—The Priscilla rest for old ladies has been permanently closed. Applications should be made to other rests."

No Time For Retreat.

In an Irish garrison town a theatrical company was giving performances, and some soldiers from the local barracks were engaged to act as supers. Their duties included the waging of a fierce fight in which, after a stirring struggle, one army was defeated on a given signal from the prompter. For a few nights all went well, but on the Friday evening a special performance of the piece was to be given under the patronage of the colonel and other officers of the garrison. The two armies met as usual at the end of the second act, when they fought and fought and kept on fighting, regardless of the agonized glare in the eye of their actor general, who hoarsely ordered the proper army to "Retreat, confound you." But the fight still went on, and soon the horrified manager saw the wrong army being driven slowly off the stage, still fighting desperately. Down came the curtain amid roars of laughter, and the fuming manager hastened to ask the delinquents why they had failed to retreat on hearing the signal.

"Retreat," roared a burly fustler whose visage had been badly battered, "and is it retreat ye'd have us, wid the colonel and all the officers in the boxes?"—London Scraps.

Mind Your Own Business.

An old man once peeped in a remote place in England of giving a clock to any one who would truthfully swear that he had minded his own business alone for a year and a day and had not meddled with his neighbors. Many came, but few, if any, aimed the prize, which was more difficult to win than the Dinnow fitch of bacon. Though they swore on the four gospels and held out their hands in certain hope, some hitch was sure to be found somewhere, and for all their asseverations the clock remained stationary on the shelf, no one being able to prove his absolute immunity from uncalled for interference in things not in any way concerning himself. At last a young man came with a perfectly clear record, and the clock seemed as if it was at last about to change owners. Then said the custodian, "Oh, a young man was here yesterday and made mighty sure he was going to have the clock, but he didn't." "And why didn't he get it?" "What's that to you?" snapped the custodian. "That's not your business, and you don't get the clock."

The Chinese Sampan.

In Canton 40,000 people spend their whole existence in boats, which are there called sampans. They are born in them, live in them from infancy to old age and finally die in them. Collected these boats form a floating suburb to the city proper, one of the most amazing human settlements in the world. Every creek is crisscrossed with them. Along the main banks of the river they are huddled twenty deep, so close together that the covering of mats appears continuous as far as the eye can reach. And each sampan house is a separate family, with its own big brazier lamp, which serves for heating, lighting and cooking the evening meal. The scene when a really serious conflagration once gets a proper hold in the midst of these floating wooden houses may be imagined. Escape is impossible except for those moored at the outermost edge. In one of these conflagrations over a thousand persons lost their lives.

Wanted Her.

"An old couple from the east," says the Detroit Free Press, "are visiting their son in this city. If the mother gets out of sight of the father, he is constantly asking for her and is not content if they are together again. The other evening she went to another part of the house while he was in the parlor and after he had asked for her a half dozen times the son said, rather curtly:

"It seems as though you couldn't be without mother five minutes at a time."

"You're right," said the old gentleman slowly. "That's the reason I married her."

A Suit of Ratskin.

A thrifty Welshman at one time exhibited himself publicly in England attired in a costume composed from top to bottom of ratskins, which he had spent three years and a half in collecting. The dress was made entirely by himself. It consisted of a coat, a chief, coat, waistcoat, trousers, tippet, gaiters and shoes. The number of rats required to complete the suit was 570. Most curious of the garments was the tippet, composed entirely of rats' tails.

Worst Place For It.

Small Johnny had been away for several weeks when one day an aunt from a distance came to visit the family. "Why, Johnny," she exclaimed, "how thin you are! Have you been sick?" "Yes'm," replied the little fellow. "I had the brain fever and right in my head, too, the very worst place I could have had it."

"Why not?"

"He kept me waiting until all the restaurants were closed."—Exchange.

The Disadvantage of Misunderstanding Among Three.

By A. B. SEARLE.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

If anything goes wrong among associates the more persons in it the worse the trouble and the less chance of an explanation and reconciliation. In the most important episode of my life I became involved with two other persons to my permanent discomfiture. If my dealings had been with one the trouble would not have occurred.

It was the very common case of two fellows after one girl, and the two fellows were friends. I was one of the fellows, and Bob Hoyt was the other. Eileen Gilbert was the girl. It was Bob who introduced me to her, so I wasn't obliged to keep off on his account. Bob was a quiet, backward sort of fellow, while I datter myself I have that gall about me which wins with a woman.

There are several principles that I considered. The first is, "Don't show your hand to others;" the second, "If you want anything don't make it appear valuable." I determined to keep Bob in the dark as to my intentions and to lead him to believe that Eileen was no great catch. Of course this was difficult for me to do and at the same time see enough of her to win her. But I handled the matter so well that I got in a number of visits without Bob knowing anything about them. How far I succeeded in leading him to believe that she was not worth trying for I couldn't find out. He wasn't a talker. I knew very well he admired her and that I'd better do what I could to head him off.

Eileen for quite awhile was on the fence between Bob and me. I had some property, while Bob had nothing but pluck and energy, and I'll do him the justice to admit that he had plenty of both. There's nothing mean about me even in speaking of a rival. Bob showed no disposition to win the girl, but I didn't know whether this was because he didn't fancy her or because I had intimidated that she was not especially to be desired. This gave me every chance, and I availed myself of the position.

Eileen lived at her father's country place, about fifty miles from the city, and during the summer I made hay while the sun shone, spending a number of weeks at the village near her home ostensibly for the fishing, which was good in the neighborhood. Finally I sounded Eileen sufficiently to discover that a proposal was liable to be accepted. This was by letter, and I resolved to go to her and close the matter. As luck would have it, who should be at the station to see his mother off on a train but Bob. I had no choice where I was going and whom I was going to see, but I intimated that I had promised to go to make one of a house party and expected to be much bored. Bob told me he thought I'd have a good time if I only made up my mind to do so, but I refused to be convinced.

I made my proposition to Eileen, and it was graciously received. But girls never like to give an answer on the moment. They like to keep a fellow worried. It's an awful suspense to a man, and the more feverish a man is under it the better the girl likes it. I told her that I wouldn't go back to the city without an answer. I remained two days, but the answer didn't come. I wished I hadn't said what I did about waiting for it and began to think of an excuse for breaking the embarrassing position. Besides, I couldn't remain away from my duties. I hit on what seemed an excellent plan. I would telegraph Bob to call me back "on business." This would convince him that I was being bored and enable me to await my answer in the city. I sent a message to Bob as follows: "Insufferably bored. Get me out of this by wiring me to return on important business."

I directed the telegraph operator to send the reply to me at the Gilbert residence. I told Eileen that I would go on a tramp during the day and hoped that by my return at evening I would receive the long deferred answer. She would not promise definitely, but gave me to understand not only that I should have it, but that it would be favorable. I hoped to find my recall at the house when I came in from my tramp and get away on a night train.

I tramped all day, returning about 5 o'clock. I expected to see Eileen on the piazza dressed for the afternoon and hoped to be made happy. But as I approached I saw that the piazza was vacant. I went up to the front door and rang for admittance. A maid came, opened the door and poked a telegram at me, with the ominous words:

"Miss Gilbert says to tell you that she opened it thinking it might be best for her to send for you. Please accept her apologies."

I took the bit of yellow paper from the envelope and read it. Horror of horrors! It was my telegram to Bob. It had been sent to me indorsed, "Party not in town." While I was staring at it the maid shut the door in my face.

As I said at the beginning, it was having a third party in the matter that brought trouble. If it hadn't been for Bob I'd never have sent that telegram. And if it hadn't been for Bob I might have made it up with Eileen. She was just mad enough to write him an invitation to visit at her father's house with other friends, and when, after repeated efforts to see Eileen, I went to the city I saw Bob passing me on a train going to have the whole field to himself. When he returned he announced his engagement.

That Board of Trade.

The meeting called at the New City Hall on Monday evening to kill the old Board of Trade and "re-organize" with "new blood," was attended by the following citizens: F. T. Duhring, Henry Waters, C. T. Ryland, W. O. Hocker, C. L. Newman, W. H. Bridges, W. A. Werner, George W. Reed, Paul Mosner and R. H. Piatt. A temporary organization was effected with F. T. Duhring as President and W. A. Werner, Secretary.

The object of this new Board of Trade has not as yet been made public, but it is known that a banquet is to be tendered the Napa Board of Trade, which will give some of our townspeople an opportunity to pose before the awe-stricken visitors as leading citizens and the real thing in the civic affairs of our town. So mote it be.

"The Breeze," a San Luis Obispo newspaper, has gone into bankruptcy. Evidently the wind was all taken out of the sails of the sheet.

Fireman Phil Redmond's Condition No Better

Fireman Phil Redmond of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, who was badly scalded by escaping steam from an overturned locomotive in a railway accident nearly a year ago, is still in a precarious condition. Notwithstanding heroic measures have been taken by skin grafting and other means to save the young man's life, it is now thought he may not survive his frightful injuries. The sufferings he has endured have been something awful. Nearly two hundred skin grafts have been placed on his injured limbs in the hope of giving him health and strength, and the ordeals which he has passed through in the grafting operations have been extremely severe. Some Wolf grafting is to be done on the young man at once, and it is hoped this will make an improvement in his condition.

The Emmanuel Sanitarium

The Emmanuel Sanitarium Co., which recently acquired Dr. C. C. O'Donnell's holdings in Glen Ellen is perfecting plans for carrying out its sanitarium scheme. The contract for erecting a number of buildings has already been let and the company will also construct a bridge across Sonoma creek, nearly opposite the Northwestern Pacific depot, work upon which will be commenced at once by contractors Foss and Armstrong of Berkeley. The deed from Dr. O'Donnell transferring the property to the new owners will be recorded today in Santa Rosa.

Chopped Thumb Off.

The little four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Bendetti, residing in the northern part of town, had a thumb chopped off with an axe last Tuesday. The member was held together by a mere shred of flesh. The parts were joined together, however, with a number of stitches, and Dr. Thomson, who treated the little chap, expects to save the thumb.

Riley Sent Up for Eighteen Months

John Riley, convicted in the Superior Court of this county last week for assaulting Patrick Malone with an axe, was sent to Folsom last Tuesday for eighteen months by Judge Seawell. Riley's crime was a diabolical one and in the opinion of many people here he got off easy.

BRILLIANT AND SUCCESSFUL OPENING

Large Gathering on Opening
Night at Agua Caliente
Springs

The beautiful grounds of Agua Caliente Springs were crowded Saturday night with hundreds of visitors who came to celebrate the opening of 1909 at this popular resort of Sonoma Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Richards, assisted by their handsome daughters, Misses Millie and Elsie Richards, received their guests in gracious style and a grand ball ushered in an auspicious season for the hospitable proprietors. The Marine Band furnished music for the dancing and the open air ball room was the scene of a brilliant assemblage. The night was balmy and moonlit and made more brilliant by the myriads of lanterns and electric lights and the scores of pretty summer girls and their well-groomed partners who tripped the light fantastic and strolled around the picturesque grounds. At midnight a fine supper was served in the spacious dining room of the hotel which had been beautifully decorated for the event and where several fine musical numbers were rendered during the banquet.

There were many visitors from abroad beside the large number of regular guests and all were loud in their praises of the welcome accorded them at beautiful Agua Caliente Springs, the pride of Sonoma Valley's numerous summer resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards anticipate a lively season and have made many improvements to accommodate guests for the summer of 1909. Their swimming tank and tub baths were filled to overflowing on the Decoration Day holiday and the mineral water was a most popular beverage.

Woman's Club Makes Donation

At a special meeting of the Woman's Club, held on Friday of last week, the sum of $125 was appropriated from the Club funds to build a fountain in the Plaza. It will be a rustic affair and will occupy a site in the center of the proposed grass plot which will be planted in front of the City Hall at the Broadway entrance.

In order to properly carry out the plan the club women appointed Mrs. Lulu Emparan, Mrs. H. Watters and Miss Doris Clewe a committee of three to confer with Messrs. H. Bates and L. Quartaroli of the Plaza Committee of the Board of City Trustees.

Now is the time to lay concrete sidewalks. See Trudgen, the stone mason, about it.

The bill of Henshaw, Bulkeley & Co. was held up and returned to the firm for correction.

The contract with the Sonoma Valley Co. for electric street lighting was renewed for another month, as was also the contract with the Sonoma Water Works Company for another six months.

S. Popper of Napa appeared before the Board and asked for a license for a new and second hand furniture store in this place. On receipt of Trustee Bates, which received a second from Trustee McDonnell, the application was laid over for further consideration Thursday evening.

The report of R. E. Perkins, special auditor employed by the finance committee of the City Trustees, was read by the Clerk and placed on file.

Ordinance No. 101, establishing a public library in the City of Sonoma, was introduced by Trustee Bates. On motion of Trustee McDonnell the ordinance was read the first time. This ordinance has for its purpose the levying of a perpetual tax on our people for the purpose of securing a Carnegie Library.

A communication was received from the Sonoma Woman's Club in reference to expending $125 of the club funds for a fountain to occupy a site in front of the New City Hall. The communication was filed and seeing something for nothing in sight the Trustees, with great wisdom, accepted the generous offer of the ladies with profuse thanks.

On motion of Trustee Bates, which received a second from Trustee McDonnell, the Board adjourned to meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Memorial Day

Memorial Day was fittingly observed here Monday. Flags fluttered in the breeze at half-mast, there were services in Union Hall and a large number of citizens and school children marched to Mountain Cemetery and decorated the graves of the old soldiers who lie buried there. It was a most fitting tribute to our dead heroes.

Another Land Sale at Agua Caliente

ARION OUTING GREAT SUCCESS

German Society Enjoy Sonoma
Valley and Enliven Days at Boyes Hot Springs

Sonoma Valley had the pleasure of welcoming the Arion Singing Society of San Francisco on its annual outing for three days, from Saturday until Monday. The Arions had their headquarters at Boyes Springs and made things lively at the big resort during their sojourn. Over one hundred members came up on Saturday night and upon their arrival sat down to an elaborate banquet, where they were welcomed in a hearty speech by Herr Liebold, President of the Society. After the banquet dull care was buried and the joys of living initiated, the ceremonies concluding with a "kirmess," in which the different members participated. Most clever of these was Miss Klaus, President of the Ladies Society, who gave a monologue which was decidedly the hit of the jinks.

On Sunday morning the Arions were entertained by Messrs. Gundlach and Dresel at Rhinefarm, where the latch string was out to these most genial guests and where they were the recipients of a most cordial reception. They were bade welcome by Henry Gundlach in a neat speech and Herr Liebold replied in a happy vein. There was singing and feasting at the beautiful vineyards and R. Lowenstein's bass solo, "In Tiefen Keller" was roundly applauded.

In the afternoon the party returned to the Springs where they enjoyed the swimming and other attractions of the big resort.

The crowning feature of the outing came in the evening when the concert took place. It was a musical treat such as Sonoma has never before enjoyed. Under the direction of Frederick Zech, the following program was rendered:

"Spring Song," mixed chorus.
"Am Ort wo meine," Wiege-stand, male chorus.
Solo, Miss Vollers (soprano).

"Ave Maria," male chorus.
"Old Black Joe," male chorus.
Spanish Song, Mrs. Freigang.

"Come, oh Come," male chorus.
"Heimweh," Miss Purlenky.

(contralto);
"Old Folks at Home," male chorus.

Mrs. Freigang, who is a noted operatic singer, charmed her hearers with her most beautiful renditions. Miss Vollers and Miss Purlenky, the contralto, are both possessed of wonderfully fine voices. The chorus harmony was splendid and did great credit to Mr. Zech's training.

After the concert a grand ball was held. Monday the barbeque picnic on the banks of the Sonoma Creek was the principal feature and was followed by games and the awarding of prizes. The party left on the afternoon train highly pleased with their first Sonoma County outing and leaving behind many friends and admirers who sincerely hope that they will come again to this valley. The officers and committee of arrangements were as follows: G. Liebold, president; C. Zwiervlein, vice-president; J. Limmen, A. Becker, Wm. John, J. Herman, E. A. Otto, committee of arrangements.

Palace Tonsorial Parlors

Paul Robin, the proprietor of this popular tonsorial establishment has engaged as his assistant Joe Silva, the well-known tonsorial artist of San Francisco. As Mr. Robin is a first-class artist himself one is assured of a good shave and an up-to-date hair cut if the Palace is given a trial. The trade of both town and valley is respectfully solicited. Give the Palace a trial.

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects, always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

Another Feather in Sonoma's Cap

The Harmonie Society, another big German organization, has arranged with one of our resorts for a tremendous celebration in this valley on the Ninth of September. They will have a "humoresque" parade, fine brass band, jinks, dancing and a general good time. Mr. Herman of the "Heidelberg" was here this week making arrangements with Dr. Parramore for the accommodation of the visitors over this holiday.

AN EXCITING AND DISASTROUS RUNAWAY

Four People Seriously Injured
and a Light Buggy
Demolished

A frightful runaway accident occurred on the county road, opposite Boyes Springs last Monday.

A span of horses attached to a buggy ran away near Agua Caliente and the driver, A. D. Himmelmann of San Francisco, who was accompanied by a gentleman friend, lost all control of the animals and they dashed madly down the road.

When opposite Boyes Springs the runaways collided with a light buggy in which were seated Miss Annie Pemberton, a popular young woman of this place, and a gentleman friend who was visiting her family. When the teams collided there was a terrific crash and in a second the four occupants of the two buggies were hurled violently to the ground, and in a twinkling one of the vehicles completely wrecked.

Miss Pemberton was picked up unconscious and carried into one of the cottages at the Springs. By-standers also rushed to the assistance of the three men, all of whom were more or less bruised and battered up. Mr. Himmelmann's friend, whose name could not be learned, suffered a double fracture of the right leg above the ankle, while the former, although badly shaken up, fortunately escaped without broken bones. Miss Pemberton's companion came out of the dreadful mixup with slight bruises.

Dr. Thomson, who was near at hand, attended to the injured. Miss Pemberton, after being revived was sent to her home near this place where she will be confined for some time as the result of her hurts.

Himmelmann's friend, who is an employee of W. & J. Sloan, the San Francisco merchants, had his broken bones set by Dr. Thomson, and in the afternoon took the train for the metropolis, and is now being treated at the German Hospital. His injuries will lay him up for many months.

Clarence Cheney came up from the city on Memorial Day and was the guest of his parents, Postmaster and Mrs. Cheney.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon came up from the metropolis and were guests at the Estes home on Broadway Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Miller, accompanied by a party of friends from the metropolis, took an automobile trip to Santa Rosa Sunday.

J. Gilbert, a pioneer resident of this place, is lying dangerously ill at his home on First-street West. He is very low and at times has been unconscious the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Kerner after an absence of several weeks, arrived in town from San Francisco Wednesday morning. After traveling around considerable they find no place like old Sonoma and may again locate here.

Ben Benjamin, the sporting editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, has been sojourning in our valley and is trying to revive the Sonoma Astronomical Society, founded by Dent Robert and Peter Robinson, two prominent newspaper men.

The regular choir of St. Francis Church was given a picnic at Napa Soda Springs on Thursday of last week. Eighteen young ladies, accompanied by Father Leahy, the pastor, and two sisters of Presentation Convent composed the party.

Jack London, who has abandoned his seven-years tour around the world, is now in Panama, taking in the sights along the route of the great inter-ocean canal being constructed by the United States Government. He will remain on the isthmus for several weeks and will take a steamer for San Francisco some time this month. He is expected to arrive at his Glen Ellen home about July 1st.

Stanford Parlor of San Francisco to Spend Fourth at Springs

Stanford Parlor, Native Sons of San Francisco, will again come to Sonoma Valley for a Fourth of July outing.

Arrangements have been made for the accommodation of a large crowd of members and their wives at Boyes Hot Springs, where they had such a splendid celebration last year. Two hundred are expected to join in the festivities and as this parlor comprises Sons of California's pride in the business and professional circles of San Francisco many will be among us on this happy occasion.

COUNTY NEWS ITEMS

Excerpts From Our Local Happenings.

Mrs. Harriet Field, a resident of Cloverdale for years, passed away at her home there Friday, May 21st. Mrs. Field was a native of Missouri and was aged 70 years and 2 months. She crossed the plains in 1864 and settled in Cloverdale. She is survived by three daughters and one son.

Sonoma county vineyards were damaged to a considerable extent by the frost of last Sunday morning. The vineyards affected the worst are those on valley or hot-land. In the Dry Creek section reports give the estimated damage as 50 per cent of the crop. Alexander valley vines also were badly nipped. Grapes along the Russian river seem to have suffered, from Cloverdale south.

Considerable interest was aroused in hop circles in this county Saturday when one sale of the coming season's crop was made by contract at 12 cents a pound. This is the top notch price by contract this year. There is a steady upward tendency in the price of hops. After the dull times the growers hope to see a ray of sunshine ahead for them. As far as Sonoma county is concerned there are very few old hops in the hands of the owners.

Dickens' Characters.

Dickens bestowed many of his fictitious names on real flesh and blood personages, says an admirer of the famous novelist. Indeed he and David Copperfield were not far apart, so far as salient features were concerned. Tracy Chapman was the happy counterpart of a man named Winters, who at the present day would be pounded or arrested for what is known in slang as "mashing." Paul Dombey was an invalid nephew of the author, his right name being Harry Burnett. Dora Copperfield was a Miss Beadwell, with whom Dickens was in love at the early age of eighteen. Mrs. Bardell, who gave Pickwick the worst time in his life, was a scheming boarder house widow named Ann Ellis. Tommy Traddles was Colonel Broome Tuford, formerly superintendent of Indian affairs in Canada. Miss Morcher was a Miss Wilkes. Mrs. Skewton a Mrs. Campbell; the amiable Squeers was William Shaw; the lovely Cheeryble brothers were cotton spinners and merchants of Manchester; the fat boy was a true life character, and so was Captain Cuttle, one of the most attractive of all.

Didn't Impress Him.

Shortly after his rise to the bench Judge Coleman had occasion to pronounce a life sentence upon a notorious offender. In the course of his remarks the judge spoke with so much feeling and eloquence that many of the listeners were deeply affected. The prisoner, on the other hand, seemed to be quite indifferent, looking at the ceiling and apparently giving no attention whatever to what was being said. After he had been remanded to jail one of the young lawyers had gone into the cell, curious to know how the criminal had felt when his honor was passing sentence upon him. "What do you mean?" asked the convicted one. "I mean when the judge was telling you you must go to prison for life." "You mean when he was talking to me?" "Yes." "Oh, I never paid no attention to Dick Coleman. He ain't no public speaker now!"—Argonaut.

The Fate of the Fancy Set.

James, aged seven, had been promoted. In recognition of this great event his father purchased for him the following things that James insisted were necessary: A box of one dozen pencils, assorted leads; one ink and one pencil eraser, one pencil box with a marvelous roll top, three copybooks for home work, two penholders and a patent strap that was a marvel of ingenuity, but somehow or other didn't seem to hold the books very firmly. The father examined the outfit a few days after and found that it contained— One much chewed lead pencil furnished by the city, a scribbling pad with a few sheets on it, a tin fountain pen that did not work and never could have worked and a skate strap to hold the things together. The father asked no questions. He instinctively knew what had become of the fancy implements of education. —New York Press.

Her Answer.

An Atchison girl had a proposal of marriage and asked a week to think it over. She went to all of her married sisters. One, who used to be a belle, had three children, did all her own work and hadn't been to the theater or out riding since she was married. Another, whose husband was a promising young man at the time she was married, was supporting him. A third didn't dare say her life was her own when her husband was around, and a fourth was divorced. After visiting them and hearing their woes the heroine of this little tale went home, got pen, ink and paper and wrote an answer to the young man. You may think it was refusing him, but it wasn't. She said she could be ready in a month.—Atchison Globe.

Faith, Hope and Charity.

A London weekly offered 2 guineas for a definition of faith, hope and charity. The winner is as follows: Faith, blind trust in a first page; hope, what investors are fed upon; charity, what some of them are likely to be brought to.

That is certainly not bad, but this one is perhaps even better: Faith, the gift that saves mankind; hope, the gift that cheers mankind; charity, the gift that makes man kind.

The Dear Friends.

"Fred didn't blow his brains out because you filled him the other night," said girl friend No. 1. "He came over and proposed to me." "Did he?" replied girl friend No. 2. "Then he must have got rid of them in some other way."

Hindsight.

"I made enough money in Wall street last week to buy a house and lot." "Did you buy it?" "Well, no; but I wish I had."—New York Herald.

Why She Did It.

"Why is it," they asked, "that you let your husband have his own way in everything?" "Because," she replied, "I like to have some one to blame when things go wrong."

Proof.

"I guess their honeymoon is about over." "What makes you think so?" "He's quit coming home for his noon lunch."—Detroit Free Press.

EQUATORIAL AFRICA.

How Hunters Dress Where There is No Down and No Dusk.

We wore khaki for daytime and warm clothes for night when sitting around the camp, as after the sun goes down a great chill immediately settles down that makes winter clothing and a good big fire most essential.

During the daytime we always wore pith helmets, although sometimes early in the morning and late in the afternoon, when the sun is not at its maximum, a double tiered felt hat may be substituted. It is far more comfortable than the helmet.

As additional protection we wore sun pads which covered the spine. These are merely heavy quilted strips that reach from the collar to below the shoulders, as we were advised that the effect of the sun was just as deadly at this point as on the head. I do not know what maximum the thermometer would reach in the sun, as I was afraid to leave it exposed when it got higher than a little above 150 degrees, as beyond that point there was great danger of breaking it. In the shade the temperature would be usually from 85 to 100 degrees, but there was always a breeze blowing, and the dryness of the air cooled one off quite rapidly as soon as one got out of the sun. It was always cold in the morning when we started out at the first peep of light, and we were usually shivering for a few minutes prior to the sun's appearance. Day does not dawn in equatorial Africa, but it bursts! It is dark one minute and full sunlight the next, and the reverse occurs in the evening, for the sun goes down and night comes on as if a curtain had suddenly been drawn down over the west, and the chill of night begins instantly.—Percy C. Madeira in Metropolitan Magazine.

"A Sound Box."

Take an ordinary rubber band and stretch it between the thumb and forefinger of your left hand. If you pick it with the fingers of the right hand and let go suddenly it will make a sound which you can hear distinctly enough yourself, but which will not be audible to any one a few feet away. But if you were to fasten the elastic, with a pin at each end, to an empty wooden box, only not so as to touch the wood, and then twang it the sound would be much louder than before. That box is the sound box or sound board, and all stringed instruments have one in some shape or other.—St. Nicholas.
